PROFILES OF THE PROPOSED PAN-AFRICAN PANELISTS

Evans Ogada

As a leading authority at the intersection of litigation and academia, Evans Ogada has established himself as a formidable advocate in the fields of constitutional and administrative law. His practice is defined by a deep commitment to public interest, demonstrated through his extensive experience handling complex cases that shape Kenya's legal landscape. Among his notable achievements, he represented the Law Society of Kenya in a critical 2019 petition regarding the appointment of judges and has successfully argued petitions challenging arbitrary arrests, cementing his reputation as a steadfast defender of the rule of law.

His practical expertise is complemented by a distinguished academic career. He holds both Master of Laws and Bachelor of Laws degrees from the University of Nairobi, where he now serves as a Lecturer in Public Law, mentoring future legal practitioners. Before his current academic role, he was counsel at the Katiba Institute, one of the nation's most respected public interest litigation organizations.

Evans Ogada is a prolific scholar who has published extensively on constitutionalism and public administration. His influence extends beyond the courtroom and the classroom; he is an active member of key Law Society of Kenya committees, including the Public Interest Committee and the Nairobi Branch's Constitutional/Judicial Review Bar Bench Committee. Furthermore, as an Associate Editor with the Platform for Law, Justice and Society and a regular panelist at civil society forums, he plays a vital role in shaping public and legal discourse in Kenya.
